

Rapp Rocks Adult Summer Bouldering League Rulebook

Welcome

Welcome to the Rapp Rocks Adult Summer Bouldering League.

This league is designed to create a fun, competitive, and fair climbing experience for climbers of all skill levels. Through teamwork, consistent participation, and honest effort, climbers are encouraged to improve their skills, try new styles, and support one another throughout the season.

Whether you are a newer climber or a long-time crusher, every climber has the opportunity to contribute meaningfully to their team.

1. League Format

Team Structure

- Teams consist of 3 to 5 climbers
- Teams are established before league play begins
- Mid-season roster additions or changes are handled by league administrators

Weekly Schedule

Each league week runs from:

Monday through Sunday

- New climbing routes are introduced each Monday
- Climbs must be completed and logged by Sunday night
- There are no dedicated league days and routes can be completed at any point throughout the week.
- Climbs completed after the weekly deadline will count toward the following week

Eligibility

- This league is open to climbers 16 years of age and older
- Participants under 18 may require a signed waiver or parent/guardian consent based on gym policy
- All participants must meet any facility climbing requirements to compete

2. League Spirit

This league is built around improvement, teamwork, and fair competition.

Participants are encouraged to:

- support teammates
- share beta
- challenge themselves on unfamiliar styles
- climb honestly
- focus on improvement as much as rankings

The goal is to create a competitive environment that rewards effort, consistency, and growth—not simply raw climbing strength.

Every Climb Counts

Because individual score and team contribution is based on total weekly performance, every completed climb can improve your total.

This includes climbs:

- below your current grade
- at your current grade
- above your current grade
- projected over multiple attempts

Strategic volume and consistency both matter.

Even lower-grade climbs can meaningfully contribute to your weekly performance and your team score.

3. Session Logging Rules

All climbing activity is logged through the league website/app.

Logging Requirements

Participants must:

- log all attempts honestly
- log every completed climb they want scored
- accurately record projected climbs

- submit session data before ending their climbing session

Important Notes

- Only climbs marked Top receive points
- Projected climbs count
- Routes do not need to be flashed to score
- All attempts count, including unsuccessful attempts before topping the route

Example:

If a climber attempts a route 8 times and tops it on attempt 8, all 8 attempts count toward scoring.

4. Route Scoring

Each completed route earns points based on difficulty.

Base Route Values

Grade	Base Points	Max Points (Flash Bonus)	Minimum Points (15+ attempts)
V2 / V3	100	110	85
V4 / V5	125	135	110
V6 / V7	150	160	135
V8 / V9	175	185	160

Flash Bonus

Completing a route on the first attempt earns: +10 points

Attempt Penalty

Each attempt reduces route score by: 1 point per attempt

Maximum attempt penalty: 15 points

This means penalties stop increasing after 15 attempts.

Scoring Examples

Flash Send — V4/V5

$125 + 10 = 135$ points

Projected Send — V6/V7 in 6 attempts

$150 - 6 = 144$ points

Long Project — V8/V9 in 22 attempts

$175 - 15 = 160$ points

No Send

0 points

5. Team Scoring

The league uses a handicap-based scoring system designed to create fair competition between climbers of different skill levels.

Rather than rewarding only the strongest climbers with the highest team contribution, scores are normalized based on what is reasonably expected for each climber's current grade.

This allows climbers of all abilities to contribute equally when performing well relative to their own level.

How Team Scoring Works

Step 1 — Raw Weekly Score

Each climber earns a raw climbing score based on:

- route difficulty
- flash bonuses
- attempt deductions
- completed climbs

This is the climber's actual weekly climbing score.

Step 2 — Individual Expected Weekly Score

Each climbing grade has an expected weekly raw score.

This represents the performance level expected from a climber at that grade.

Climbing Grade	Individual Expected Weekly Score
2	275
3	420
4	570
5	715
6	860
7	1005
8	1155
9	1305

Step 3 — Handicap Normalization

Each climber's raw score is converted into a normalized team contribution using the following formula:

Adjusted Team Contribution = (Raw Weekly Score ÷ Expected Weekly Score) × 400

Examples:

Grade 2 climber

Expected weekly score: 275

- Scores 275 → contributes 400 team points
- Scores 550 → contributes 800 team points

Grade 7 climber

Expected weekly score: 1005

- Scores 1005 → contributes 400 team points
- Scores 750 → contributes approximately 299 team points

This means team scoring is based on performance relative to expected ability—not absolute climbing strength.

Step 4 — Team Size Adjustment

Because teams may have between 3 and 5 climbers, scores are adjusted so larger teams do not automatically have an advantage.

This ensures fair comparison across all team sizes.

Weekly Team Benchmark

A fully participating team where every climber performs exactly at expected level will normalize to:

400 team points for the week

Interpretation:

- Below 400 = team underperformed expectations
- 400 = team performed as expected
- Above 400 = team exceeded expectations

This gives every team a clear weekly benchmark regardless of roster composition.

6. Climber Grades

Each climber is assigned a league climbing grade.

Starting grades are determined using registration information including:

- preferred climbing style
- consistent flash ability
- highest completed grades

Grades are used to determine:

- expected weekly score
- handicap normalization
- climbing grade review recommendations

Current grades are visible in the website/app.

7. Grade Reviews & Adjustments

To maintain fairness, grades may be reviewed throughout the season.

Automatic Review Recommendations

The system may recommend review when performance consistently suggests a climber may be placed incorrectly.

Examples:

- sustained overperformance
- sustained underperformance

Manual Review Triggers

Extreme performance outliers may trigger manual review.

Examples:

- unusually high performance
- unusually low performance
- suspicious or inconsistent logging
- incorrect registration placement

Grade Changes

All grade changes are reviewed and approved by league administrators.

No automatic grade changes occur without review.

8. Attendance & Participation

Participation matters.

Missing weeks reduces:

- personal standings
- team contribution
- team competitiveness

Climbers are encouraged to participate consistently whenever possible.

9. Fair Play & Sportsmanship

This league depends on honesty and good sportsmanship.

Participants are expected to:

- log attempts honestly
- accurately record completed climbs
- avoid intentionally manipulating scores
- avoid intentionally misrepresenting climbing ability
- respect fellow climbers and teams
- compete fairly

The goal is improvement, challenge, and fun—not exploiting the system.

10. Awards & Recognition

Team Awards

Awarded to the highest-performing teams based on season standings.

Individual Awards

To keep competition fair across experience levels, individual awards may be grouped by category for men and women.

11. Issues & Questions

If something appears incorrect, participants should submit an issue through the app.

Examples:

- missing climbs
- incorrect scores
- leaderboard discrepancies
- grade concerns
- technical app problems

League administrators will review submitted concerns.

12. League Administration

League administrators reserve the right to:

- correct scoring errors
- fix logging mistakes
- review suspicious activity
- adjust grades when necessary
- resolve disputes
- clarify rules as needed
- make fairness adjustments when required

Administrative decisions are made to preserve fairness and league integrity.

Final Notes

Climb hard. Support your teammates. Try new styles. Log honestly.

Most importantly:

Have fun.
